Shenandoah Telecommunications Company Implements ReconInsight's Business Intelligence Solution

DENVER, CO JUNE 18, 2007 – ReconInsight, an innovator of next generation business intelligence (BI) and revenue assurance solutions, announced today that Shenandoah Telecommunications Company (Shentel, NASDAQ: SHEN) has purchased and successfully implemented the ReconInsight~BI product.

ReconInsight, Ltd provided Shentel with business intelligence and revenue assurance software, solutions, implementation services, and database administration support using their ReconInsight~BI product for multiple business disciplines at Shentel.

Shentel has various applications within their operational support system (OSS) that manage critical business processes and data. Although these OSS components are mature and contain a wealth of information, the visibility and value of that information was locked in their source applications. ReconInsight provides a cost effective business intelligence solution that was implemented quickly and aided Shentel in uncovering new business insight. The solution also ensures information consistency across OSS applications thus eliminating any potential lost revenue.
